Ministerial Discussion

Ministers welcomed a presentation by John McCord, Department for Social Development, Northern Ireland on the report entitled “Innovative Policy Interventions to Fund Housing Initiatives” which sets out the range of policies being adopted across all BIC Member Administrations to fund housing provision.

Ministers noted the enormous impact which the global economic downturn had had on the housing market and on the delivery of housing across all BIC administrations. Many citizens had seen the value of their home depreciate resulting in their facing negative equity. Governments too had faced significantly reduced capital budgets and a rapidly contracted development industry, whilst at the same time facing increased need as a result of demand outstripping supply. This combination of factors was having an adverse effect on the number of new social and affordable homes being built in the rental and private rental sectors, as well as the number of homes coming to the market for private sale.

Governments across the BIC Member Administrations have developed policies to address this unprecedented situation. Ministers discussed the range of innovative solutions which had been developed across member administrations to address the unique difficulties faced by each, and how these are assisting housing providers (public, voluntary or private) to access new and alternative funding mechanisms.

Discussion included feedback on the experience of each administration on the effects of their policy interventions and on the financial instruments used to increase the housing supply and improve the standards of the existing housing stock.

Ministers also received a presentation from Alistair Steele, MBE, Castle Rock Edinvar Housing Association on Partnership Working which set out how the Sector in Scotland have delivered by developing the relationship between Government; the Local Authority; Housing Association and Stakeholders to deliver projects on the ground.

Ministers welcomed the updated Housing Directory which provided details of good practice across Administrations.

Future Work Programme

Ministers requested that BIC member administrations explore the possibility of a common set of definitions which will enable collection and collation of common datasets to facilitate benchmarking. Ministers have tasked the group to examine how housing policy can continue to innovate to deliver increased housing supply through alternative funding mechanisms and collaborative relationships; and housing policy's role in delivering wider regeneration and social value goals e.g. inclusive communities, economic development, social enterprise, etc. They have asked that the work sector look to provide a full report on the impact and future of innovative policy interventions to increase housing supply and an initial report on the possible role housing policy can fulfil in delivering wider Government regeneration and social value goals.

Ministers agreed that the next Ministerial meeting will take place in Jersey.
